Fatehpur Sikri was established in 1571 by Emperor Akbar as a strategic political capital and as a reflection of his religious and cultural beliefs. The site's name translates to "City of Victory," commemorating Akbar's military successes and consolidating his power in North India. Originally conceived as an administrative center, it was intended to serve as a hub for religious dialogue and cultural integration, embodying Akbar's policy of Sulh-e-Kul (peace to all religions).

The decision to build Fatehpur Sikri was also influenced by the failure of earlier campaigns and the need for a new capital after the conquest of Gujarat and the consolidation of Mughal power. Reasons for Abandonment
