The core principles of contract law revolve around the formation of valid contracts, the terms involved, and the enforceability of those agreements.

Common Contract Law Questions and Answers

- What is a contract, and what are its essential elements?

Question:

What constitutes a valid contract under English law?

Answer:

A valid contract under English law must satisfy several essential elements:

- Offer: One party must make a clear, unequivocal proposal to enter into an agreement.
- Acceptance: The other party must accept the offer unequivocally and in the manner specified or reasonably expected.
- Intention to Create Legal Relations: Both parties must intend for the agreement to have legal consequences.
- Consideration: There must be some value exchanged between parties, such as money, services, or promises.
- Capacity: Parties must have the legal capacity to contract (e.g., not minors or mentally incapacitated).
- Legal Purpose: The contract's purpose must be legal and not against public policy.

Additional Notes:

- The agreement must be certain and complete.
- The contract can be written, oral, or implied by conduct, though some types require written form (e.g., contracts for sale of land).

- How does offer and acceptance work in contract formation?

Question:

What are the rules governing offer and acceptance in contract law?

Answer:

Offer and acceptance are fundamental to forming a contract. The process involves:

- Offer:
 - Must be clear, definite, and communicated to the offeree.
 - Can be revoked before acceptance unless it is an irrevocable offer (e.g., a firm offer under the Sale of Goods Act).
- Acceptance:
 - Must be absolute and unqualified; any variation may be considered a counter-offer.
 - Must be communicated to the offeror, except in cases where silence or conduct implies acceptance.
 - Acceptance must be made within the timeframe specified or within a reasonable period.

Rules and Principles:

- The "mirror image rule" states acceptance must exactly match the offer.
- The "postal rule" applies in some cases, meaning acceptance is effective when mailed, not when received.
- Instantaneous communication (e.g., phone, email) requires acceptance to be received to be effective.

- What is consideration, and why is it necessary?

Question:

Why is consideration essential in contract law, and what does it entail?

Answer:

Consideration refers to something of value exchanged between parties, which is necessary to validate a contract under English law. It serves as evidence that both parties intend to enter into a binding agreement.

Features of Consideration:

- Must be sufficient but need not be adequate (the law generally does not judge the fairness of consideration).
- Can be a promise to do something or refrain from doing something.
- Can be past, present, or future, but only if it is part of the current bargain (past consideration is generally not valid).
- Must move from the promisee; a third party cannot provide consideration unless there is a specific exception.

Importance:

- Consideration distinguishes a contractual promise from a gift.
- Without consideration, a promise is usually not enforceable unless it is made in a deed.
- What are the types of contracts, and how are they classified?

Question:

How are contracts classified under English law?

Answer:

Contracts can be classified based on various criteria:

a) By Formation:

- Unilateral Contracts: One party promises in exchange for an act by the other.

- What are the defenses to contract enforcement?

- Duress: Contracts entered into under threats or coercion are voidable.
- Undue Influence: If one party exerts improper pressure on another, the contract may be invalid.
